Mount Elgon

Mount Elgon is a large, long-extinct volcano on the border between Uganda and Kenya. The summit area has one of the world's largest calderas, a 21-kilometer-wide depression. The caldera is about 65 kilometers in diameter and formed following an emplacement of a huge magma chamber. When the chamber collapsed under the weight of volcanic rocks above it, the caldera formed.

Landsat 5 data acquired on 02/25/1984